THE REAL NEW YEAR

THE real New Year is not an arbitrary division of time. It is, rather, a declaration of independence of the mind—a release from the popular prejudices and fears of the past. Then comes the realization of a real New Year and the actual dawn of a new day—one in which every advantage will be taken of resourcefulness and an indomitable faith in the future of American industry.

The 30,000 members of the Norfolk and Western Family send this New Year message to the railway's friends and patrons. They hope for a year new in all of the essentials of real prosperity, an abundance of employment and a speedy return of all normal conditions. They hope for additional opportunities to serve and that they may meet the transportation requirements of the future as they have endeavored to meet the needs of the past.

The Norfolk and Western Railway, during the past year, has maintained a progressive program of expansions and improvements throughout its territory. In doing so, it endeavored to aid the reestablishment of normal business conditions in the territory along its lines. During the first nine months of 1930, it invested $7,000,000 more in improvements and additions than for the same period in 1929. It carried over from 1929 unspent authorizations of approximately $18,800,000, which with authorizations of approximately $15,100,000 for the first nine months of 1930, totals $33,900,000; or an increase of $16,000,000 over 1929.

Also, in the Norfolk and Western Railway's shops, at Roanoke, were built hundreds of units of equipment—freight and coal-carrying cars and locomotives; there were constructed additional main tracks and three new lines in Virginia and West Virginia—bridges, trestles and culverts; additional signals, interlockers and train control devices were installed. Other major projects included: notable additions to its port facilities at Norfolk, involving pier extensions and warehouse constructions; a new eight-story addition to the general office building and a new blacksmith shop at Roanoke; new offices, station and elimination of grade crossings at Portsmouth, Ohio; elimination of grade crossings, relocation of tracks and improvements at Columbus, Ohio and numerous smaller projects.

The program outlined in preceding paragraphs has aided in providing employment, relieving business depression and stimulating industry in Norfolk and Western territory. It is the hope of the officers and staff of the railway that it will be the means of bringing a Happy New Year to many. In conclusion, the railway pledges a continuance of those worthwhile traditions of service that have made the Norfolk and Western Railway a friend to the entire territory it is privileged to serve.

The Defensive Farmer

More has been said during the past few years on the farmer's relation to present economic conditions than on any other one subject perhaps, and yet the farmer has been made to give him the helping hand he needs, but talk and plans alike have gone the way of the wind, and the farmer remains in straits which promise to become more desperate each day.

Legislation and all suggested aids at this time have done little or nothing for the farmer. And perhaps this is partly, at least, the fault of the farmer himself. He has become suspicious of all sources of aid because so many have failed him. He has reached the point where he holds back when he should push forward.

One of the outstanding solutions of the farm problems which has been offered is the co-operative. The value of this solution is apparent. It is the one means of advertising and selling the products of a group. It is the one means of stabilizing farm prices and production.

During the four years the tobacco marketing association operated in this state, Virginia growers averaged a higher price for their tobacco crops than they have in any year period in the past half century, with the exception of war prices, John Hutchinson, of the extension division, has stated after studying the figures.

Yet the farmers of this section show little interest in the co-operative. The business men of the county have willingly boosted the co-op and shown more interest in it than the farmer himself.

A local business man whose sympathy is with the farmers, made the statement the other day that the farmer does not want to be helped. In explanation, he said that he had voluntarily given several days of his time to getting members for the co-operative, and that he had found a general idea among the farmers that he was doing the work for the profit he could make out of it.

Until the farmer shakes off his attitude of defense and gains to help himself to the gains which others are trying to throw his way, his position will remain much the same.

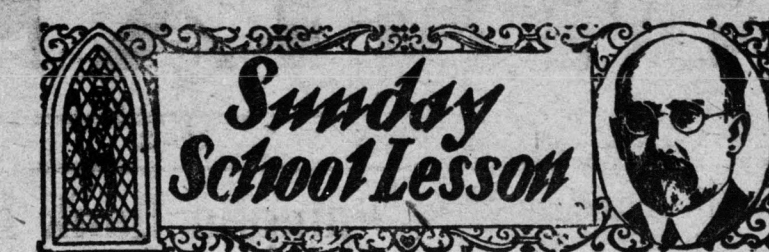

Why Is It?

George A. Just, secretary of the Boston Typothetae, asks the question:

"Why is it? A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping under an advertised blanket on an advertised mattress and pulls off advertised pajamas; takes a bath in an advertised tub; shaves with an advertised razor; washes with advertised soap; powders his face with advertised powder; dons advertised underwear; drinks a cup of advertised coffee; puts on an advertised hat; rides to his office in an advertised auto on advertised tires; then he refuses to advertise on the ground that advertising doesn't pay. If your business isn't good enough to advertise, it isn't good enough to advertise it for sale."—N. E. A. Bulletin.

THE CHILDHOOD OF JESUS

Luke 2:40-52

Just a few weeks ago we had the fascinating details about the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem. We followed the Shepherds from the fields near Bethlehem to the manger cradle and worshipped with the Wise Men as they brought their gifts. Herod wanted to kill the Child, who in time would become a King but this was prevented when Joseph obeyed the command from God to flee to Egypt with the babe and Mary the mother. When the carpenter to go back to Nazareth, their home.

At the age of thirteen the Jewish boy became BAR MIZVAH, a Son of Commandment. Then he was of age to take his place before the Lord and have part in the various Hebrew feasts. When the next Passover came Jesus was taken to Jerusalem with the family. During those twelve years He had been taught as other Hebrew children. Parts of the Old Testament Scriptures had been His study books.

People usually traveled in groups in caravan fashion in those days and it was supposed that the lad Jesus was somewhere in the company until bed time came, the first night out from Jerusalem on the way back to Nazareth. Then there was consternation because of this boy for the first time in His life He was made to return to Jerusalem and the parents searched everywhere. At last they found Him in the Temple asking questions of the learned priests. He showed surprise that any search had been made for Him for they should have really known that He would be in just one place in the house of His Father. The Golden Text describes the next wisdom and stature in favor with God and man. Luke 2:52.
